

Chilisin Reported No Impact From Wuhan Coronavirus

2020.01.31

The production bases of Chilisin Group are located not only in China but also factories out of China, including Taiwan, Vietnam, Malaysia, Poland, etc. Because none of the production bases in China are located in Hubei province, and most of these plants are planned in response to market demand maintaining at certain output capacity level since the Spring Festival, the planned supply is supposed not being affected at the beginning stage after the long holiday. In order to comply with the Chinese government's prevention measures on epidemic Coronavirus and to meet with the resumption of work schedules (which can restore the original production scale of each factory), the production scale of some factories in China is slightly affected thereafter. However, through internal resource scheduling across the country and across factories, the overall output of the group should be able to fully meet customer demand. If customers have urgent needs, you can still contact our business unit with you to propose your necessity, the group will do resource scheduling again and provide our sincerest assistance for you.
