AVNET'S COOL HISTORY

For more than 5 years, Avnet has invested time and resources to be a leader in the Environmental, Social, and Business Governance (ESG) space. We are intimately familiar with the growing problems presented by limited natural resources concerning data centers and edge, including energy, water and space. To help combat this we've focused on empowering customers with innovative solutions that address these concerns and save money.

How we lead the cooling charge:

- Forging a robust ecosystem of technology partners and delivering enterprise-ready solutions to fit your business needs.
- Our Engineering and Services organization has created custom programs for liquid cooling that offer end-to-end support and integration.
- Truly global consistent execution in tight partnership with IP Providers, OEM's, and data center/environmental companies.

Cooling Partner Spotlight

Unlike other types of liquid cooling, Chillydyne's patented, negative-pressure liquid cooling technology eliminates the risk of water leaks by pulling coolant through the system.

-Lower total cost of ownership, in legacy data centers reduce power by as much as 50%!

-Easy to maintain, install and environmentally friendly

In partnership with Avnet, Chillydyne delivers liquid cooling systems customizable to your needs now and in the future.

Engineered to cool the whole IT stack, in every use case, from Hyperscale to the Extreme Edge through chassis level precision immersion.

-Up to 96% less water usage per kW of ITE Power

-Up to 40% less power usage, CO2 emissions and cost per kW of ITE Power.

Avnet Continues to Invest

The landscape in this space is dynamic, and Avnet, with our partners, continues to evolve our offerings. Through continued investment in our global supply chain, integration capabilities, industry certifications and support.

Dell's Coolest OEM Technology

As workloads, data and Artificial Intelligence become the norm, Dell has developed purpose-built technology to unlock faster outcomes, accelerate transformation, and boost employee productivity. In partnership with Avnet, we can deliver industry-leading solutions that empower customers to deliver on outcomes, reduce cost and increase efficiency.

The R760 has been a staple of our partnership and an invaluable solution to our customers. We've already started partnering to deliver the XE9680 as the industry evolves.
