Coilcraft Inc. is monitoring the Coronavirus situation in China very closely to access possible disruptions to service levels. Updates forthcoming as new information becomes available.

Coronavirus Update #1:

Following the news of the Coronavirus outbreak, the Chinese Government has been taking numerous measures to help mitigate the impact of the virus.

On Jan 27th, the General Office of the State Council extended the New Year holiday to Feb 3rd in an effort to reduce mass gatherings, block the spread of the epidemic, and to better safeguard the safety and health of the Chinese people:

A number of provincial governments have chosen to further extend the holiday period through Feb 9th.

Coilcraft does have 3 factories inside the country of China, but none of Coilcraft’s factories are located in Hubei province, and none of Coilcraft’s factories are dependent on personnel from Hubei province. Although provincial government regulations have extended the New Year holiday, customs offices are scheduled to reopen Feb 3rd and Coilcraft plans to begin making shipments at that time.

Of note, Coilcraft has factories in 8 countries in order to mitigate risk that can arise from regional or national events. All other Coilcraft global factories continue to operate normally.”
